Declaration regarding the supplier's duty to inform of suppliers
Article 33 of Regulation (EC) No 1907/2006 of the European Parliament

Dear customer,

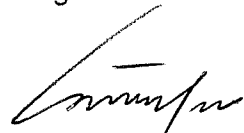

In October 2008 the European Chemicals Agency (ECHA) has published a so-called Candidate List of Substances of Very High Concern (SVHC).

Article 33 paragraph 1 of Regulation (EC) 1907/2006 (regulation of chemicals REACH) obliges the distributor of goods to provide information to subsequent users of the supply chain regarding substances of high concern in the delivered products, should one of these substances of the candidate list be contained in a concentration of > 0,1 mass percent.

In order to keep this Obligation we are in close contact with our raw material suppliers, and until this day we have not received any information that they are a circulator of SVHC substances. Therefore we assume that our products either do not contain substances of the candidate list at all, or that this concentration is below the compulsory limit of > 0,1 mass percent.

Changes will of course be communicated to the affected subsequent users, and we will adjust appropriate action in order to ensure the usual secure handling of our products.
